

A UML Sequence Diagram illustrating a synchronous message exchange. The diagram features two vertical dashed lines representing lifelines. A horizontal solid line with a black arrowhead at its right end connects the two lifelines, representing a message being sent from one to the other. Above the arrowhead, the text "confirm user information" is written, indicating the name of the message being exchanged.

confirm user information