

A UML Sequence Diagram fragment showing a return message. The message is labeled "confirm user information". It originates from the right side of the diagram and points back towards the left, indicating a return value or confirmation being sent back.